I. Policy Summary

This is the conflict-of-interest policy for members of the Strategic Integration Council (SIC) of the UC Riverside School of Medicine.

II. Definitions

Conflicts of interest may include personal relationships or financial relationships. Personal relationships include, but are not limited to, friends, family members, former employers, business/social/academic associates, and/or known relatives of any of those named above. Examples of financial relationships include, but are not limited to, the individual, or their immediate family member, currently or previously having a shared ownership interest with the individual or a member of their immediate family, or a relationship in which they receive a salary, gift, royalty, trade, intellectual property right, consulting fee, honoraria, or other financial benefit. In addition, there may be educational conflicts of interests where a member of this council may present a proposal to the council for a change that affects the area for which they are responsible. In such cases, that council member would recuse themselves from the council discussion and vote.

III. Policy Text

If a member of the SIC believes that a conflict of interest exists for themselves or for another person on the subcommittee, said member should bring the potential conflict of interest to the attention of the Chair. The Chair will convene a meeting in the absence of the person with the potential conflict and those present will determine whether a conflict exists. If the decision is in the affirmative, the individual considered to have a conflict may be asked to recuse themselves during council discussions of the subject matter in question and, should a vote be taken, will not vote on the issue. Should the Chair be the person considered to have a conflict of interest, the members of the SIC will vote on one council member to serve the function of the Chair in the process outlined.
